Dear Mr. Steinauer:

The Director of Central Intelligence's Intelligence Information Handling Committee is sponsoring a Personal Computer (PC) Information Security Conference, to be held at the Rosslyn Westpark Hotel, Arlington, Virginia, on 9-10 May 1988. This conference will be attended by representatives from government, industry, and academia; it will address PC security technology developments and policy implications affecting intelligence organizations' burgeoning use of personal computers.

I would like to invite you to attend the conference and to give a 30 minute presentation on Monday, 9 May, at about 1:30 PM. From your unique perspective within NBS and as a result of the Computer Security Act of 1987, I would ask you to speak on NBS's computer security program, especially as it relates to personal computers.

I understand that you have been informally contacted about the conference and that you've agreed to participate. I would appreciate your providing a reproducible set of your viewgraphs or slides and a short (no more than one page) biography to the Conference Director, [redacted] by 22 April 1988. Ed may be reached at [redacted]
